Employing more than 3,500 people and operating across 78 sites and 125 franchise units, Motus is one of the largest automotive groups in Europe.

The company comprises four divisions: Motus Commercials, Motus Vehicle Solutions, S&B Commercials and Pentagon Motor Group.

Everyone Must Get Home Safe

For Motus, the health and safety of every employee, contractor, supplier and visitor on its premises is of paramount importance.

Motus are a forward-thinking company in their approach to health and safety management.

From improving the quality and consistency of data captured across different sites to getting a real 'under the hood' view of what is happening, they are always asking "why".

Our ultimate aim is to ensure that our workplace is safe and that our employees go home at the end of the day.

Workplace transport and roadside assistance

Hand vibration, noise and lifting equipment

The Health and Safety Goal at Motus

A roadmap for success

Motus wanted to adopt a more agile approach to its health and safety management by using technology to transform data into actionable insights.

Motus needed a solution that would not only meet its present business needs but that would also be agile enough to adapt to changing requirements as the business grew.

Motus also wanted to increase reporting of the 'near-misses': a practice that is vital for the prevention of future accidents.

Motus And Evotix: Turbo-boosting Performance

Evotix implemented its highly configurable health and safety software solution, to support Motus in transforming its management of data collection, controls and support system.

Results

Transforming Operations

Motus has a central access hub with a comprehensive suite of dashboards and reports, showing valuable insights for each of its sites.

The group knows exactly what is happening, as well as where, when and how. Information includes engagement levels, areas for improvement and examples of best practices.

By centralizing health and safety management, the group has created a uniform system that gives everyone a voice.

A Shift in Mindset

Health and safety is no longer just about how much data is captured, but rather how it is utilized. By identifying trends, the group can now predict where preventative measures will be most effective.

Motus are confidently able to ask and answer the “why” questions necessary to avert accidents.

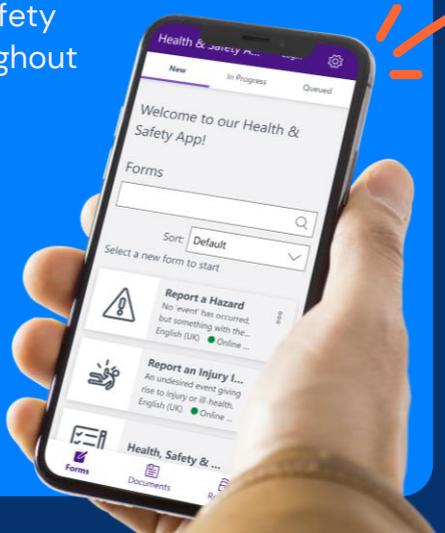

With Evotix, I can easily drill into all of the data collected across different sites, and quickly find the root cause of any incidents.

Enhanced Visibility

Visibility of what is going on has improved drastically now that the central team has access to dashboards and graphics. These make it easy to visualize all HSE metrics, in turn creating a proactive health and safety culture throughout the business.

Strengthened Brand and Reputation

Brand image has been strengthened through Motus' demonstrable commitment to health and safety with Evotix. This has helped pave the way to securing new customers and suppliers, which feeds the company's growth.

From a legal perspective, the group can now easily access the information required for proof of regulatory compliance, and the evidence needed for defence against potential claims.

Competitive Advantage

Senior management believes they have gained a competitive advantage when it comes to tendering for new contracts.

Many potential clients require extensive documentation that must be produced within tight deadlines. With Evotix, Motus can readily assemble this evidence far quicker than its competitors.
